There's a greater demand made on the strength of the mother when nursing than at any other time. She has just gone through the shock and strain of maternity, her vitality is at its lowest and the food she eats must nourish two lives. The natural result is that the mother looks around for a "tonic," and generally finds her tonic in the form of a stimulant, which not only gives the mother no real strength but is an injury to the child.

It is the concurrent testimony of women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that it is the most perfect preparation for motherhood and all its functions which has ever been discovered. It prepares the way for baby's advent, giving the organs of birth vigor and elasticity. It establishes such a condition of health that nervousness, anxiety and morning sickness are unknown. With this condition comes a healthy flow of nourishment for the child, which enables the mother to gratify the fondest instinct of maternity.

"Two years ago I used two bottles of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and in April a nice baby was born, before the doctor came," writes Mrs. Katie Aulker, of 234 Pat. Street, Alliance, Ohio. "I was not very sick. Baby is now 14 months old and weighs 30 pounds. Now I expect another about August, and I am again taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and feel very well. Several neighbors are using Dr. Pierce's medicine through my telling them about it. One lady says, 'before commencing Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I had to vomit every day, but after I got the medicine from the first spoonful that I took, I stopped vomiting.' It has done the same thing for me. It is a God-send for women."

No alcohol in any form, is contained in "Favorite Prescription," neither opium nor other narcotics. This cannot truthfully be said of any other medicine especially designed for women and sold through druggists.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free of all charge. Every letter is treated as strictly private and is enclosed in plain envelopes, bearing no printed matter whatever. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Feather and Wool Dusters!
There's no question about the everyday usefulness of a feather or wool duster. You can get along without one, but better with one. Save stooping, reaching and climbing, and will do some kinds of dusting better than anything else. The time was when the cost made them luxuries, our prices ought to make them necessities. After using one a while you would as soon think of getting along without a broom as a duster. Our stock of dusters was bought close and we can afford to sell them in the same way. We have Turkey, Ostrich, Peacock and Wool.

Oh, here's to the health of you and to you.
And the saving of wealth in prices too. There's nothing old and there's nothing new—
So, each day's a hash of a left-over stew; So, to save your dollars and to save your dimes, Just wade beyond these hashed up lines.
From top to bottom, beginning to end, You'll know then where your money to spend,
And that I'm yet, with the same good will, The "Fust" Rate Druggist.

Mark Twain as a Book Buyer.
The recent combination of the Publisher's association to prevent, if possible, the cutting in the prices of books has revived an old story told at the expense of Mark Twain. One day while Mark was connected with a publishing house he went into a book store, and, picking up a volume, asked the price. He then suggested that as a publisher he was entitled to 50 per cent. discount. To this the clerk assented.

"As I am also an author," said Mark, "it would appear that I am again entitled to 50 per cent. discount." Again the clerk bowed.
"And as a personal friend of the proprietor," he modestly continued, "I presume that you will allow me the usual 25 per cent. discount."
Another bow from the salesman.
"Well, drawled the unblushing humorist, "under these conditions I think I may as well take the book. What's the tax?"
The clerk took out his pencil and figured industriously. Then he said with the greatest obsequiousness:
"As near as I can calculate we owe you the book and about 37 1/2 cents."—Youth's Companion.

Death Valley Expedition.
"That is one of the lies which 'crop out annually, like the discovery of a barrel of snakes somewhere out west," exclaimed Chief C. Hart Merriam, of the division of biological survey, a very healthy-looking specimen of the genus homo, at the 'department of agriculture. This was his comment about recent stories that every member of the Death valley expedition of 1891, except General Fred Funston, has gone insane or died from the hardships and sufferings incident to the undertaking.

"Several of us survive, although pretty badly wrecked," continued the Chief with a smiling countenance, "and we all appreciate these annual stories. General Funston among the rest. I organized the expedition to the Death valley. Dr. T. S. Palmer now my principal assistant in this bureau, and Dr. A. K. Fisher, chief orthologist in this department, were members of it. F. V. Colville, connected with the department at present, was my botanist on that expedition, and Funston, as plant collector, was an assistant to Mr. Colville. Dr. Basil Hicks Dutcher, now a surgeon in the army—I believe he is now in Japan or the Philippines—was another member of that expedition. I had a letter from him only a day or two ago. Mr. Vernon Bailey, chief field naturalist, just now departing on a trip to Texas, and E. M. Nelson, a field naturalist, now at work in Mexico, were other members of the Death valley expedition. In fact, there are not any of us that have not survived."
"Did General Funston get lost and have a terrible experience in crossing the alkali-desert, as widely reported?"
"I have never heard of it," responded Chief Merriam. "He couldn't get lost. All he had to do was to keep along and pull weeds. But he afforded us much entertainment on the trip. He was a droll, sarcastic fellow, and his comments made us laugh.—Washington Post.

Cannon's Joke.
Congressman Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois is one of the conspicuous men in the house of representatives, and one of the quaint political characters of the country—always expected to say and do the unexpected. He has the reputation of being able to hit the bull's eye in an argument, and never tells a joke that doesn't have a sharp point bearing on the situation he is discussing.

Senator Cullom of Illinois, and Congressman Cannon are good friends—both working loyally for the interests of their state. When the senatorial race was on that resulted in the sending of Senator Cullom again to the senate, it was widely rumored that Congressman Cannon would be nominated as a rival for the senate against him.
In the midst of this political talk the Gridiron club dinner was given in Washington. Most persons know of the remarkable dinner club—its rules of free speech and no newspaper reporting, and its creed of fun. No one, no matter how distinguished, is free from amiable attack at that dinner. Cabinet ministers and senators are among the distinguished men who eagerly accept invitations to it.
The usual distinguished party was at the particular dinner referred to. Senator Cullom and Congressman Cannon, who sincerely like to poke fun at one another, sat opposite each other. Congressman Cannon was called upon to make a speech, which he declined to make, because he wasn't ready and was enjoying his dinner. The shouts then broke out that if he wouldn't make a speech he must get up and give them a good reason why he didn't think himself a worthy candidate for the senatorship for Illinois.
"Certainly, gentlemen," he answered. He arose to his feet, looked searchingly at every senator present, and then his gaze lingered fondly on Cullom. "Certainly," he repeated; "I am neither dignified nor dull."—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.
